REFERENCE

"Shiv assisted me on the direction of the National Tour of Everybody's Talking About Jamie and I can't imagine having done it without him. As a member of the original company he brought a wealth of practical knowledge but it was his sense of the emotional life of the show that I treasured most. He had taste, perception and sensitivity to each moment. We were collaborators in the rehearsal period, discussing every moment of the play as we made it together and he contributed hugely to the physical fluency of the production. He's marvellous with actors - having been one himself he communicates with great clarity. But most importantly, he has a director's eyes and ears. I expect I'll be assisting him one day!"
